128(a) Project Summary

The Tribal Response Program at the Sac and Fox Nation of Missouri in Kansas and Nebraska is a set of goals and objectives designed to benefit the people of the reservation by creating and maintaining a clean, environmentally responsible atmosphere.

The 128(a) program combines community cleanup and sustainable development that promote the reclamation and protection of our living, working and recreational spaces. The program leverages local, state, tribal and federal partners to promote smart growth, emergency preparedness, recovery planning and Brownfield redevelopment.

Additionally, the program ensures chemical safety by mitigating the risks these chemicals pose when entering our products, environment and bodies.

Protect Your Records

The amount of time it takes to recover from a disaster can be shortened dramatically if you take the time to make sure your important documents are stored in secure place. Use a fire and waterproof safe or strong box to ensure your records remain intact.

The Box Should Contain.....

- ✓ Copies of Wills
- ✓ Family Records
- ✓ Health Insurance Cards
- ✓ Medical Records
- ✓ Tribal ID Cards
- ✓ Deeds
- ✓ Credit, debit and bank account information

Guard Important Files on Your Computer

Make sure that any items you value that are stored on your computers, tablets and phones are backed up either off site or stored on disks or drives.
